RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF CHEMICALS

Tobacco producers are being reminded that they must certify they have not used pesticide products containing DDT or TDE on their 1971 tobacco plantings in order to be eligible for price support on the crop this year.

Alternate materials are available and have been demonstrated to be effective in controlling tobacco plant pests,said J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabiliation and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

He said the exclusion from price-support of tobacco treated with DDT or TDE is necessary in order to maintain the U. S. export market for tobacco. Several countries which are major importers of American-grown tobacco have set very narrow DDT and TDE tolerances on cured leaf, effective in January 1973.

"That means our tobacco growers must meet these standards now -as they did last year- because most of the 1973 crop that moves under price-support loans will not be sold and exported until after the foreign-country restrictions are in effect. As growers know, tobacco is aged for longperiods before it is used," Mr. Alvis said.

The certification of non-use of DDT and TDE must be made by a grower before any price-support loan can be made available for 1971 crop tobacco grown on his farm.

ted commodities without loss of eligibility of these commodities for Commodity Credit Corporation loans.

Eligibility is dependent on the producer retaining control, risk of loss, and title to the commodity.

This broadening of the regulations will permit more freedom to a producer in marketing his commodity at the best price obtainable, he commented.

Regulations governing release of commodities under loan to buyers remain unchanged, and the CCC's security interest in the loan collateral will continue to be held until the loan has been repaid.

Producers should check with their ASCS county office for full details on obtaining CCC loans on eligible commodities, including the new regulations which permit sales contracts on commodities under loan, the Virginia farm official said.

Perrow Attends Workshop

at this workshop was on the organizing and equipping of a shop for the teaching of the new option in machinery sales and services. Several machinery consultants demonstrated to the 27 instructors of Agricultural Education in attendance at the workshop the use of precision instruments for the measuring of tractor engine wear and analyzing of engines. Proper methods of painting tractors and equipment were discussed,also.

The Agricultural Education Department at the Appomattox County High School will initiate a new program this fall in agricultural mechanics. Mr. Perrow will be in charge of developing the option in machinery sales and services, and will be instructing agricultural students in the 10th and 12th grades.
